The benefits of strong employee engagement are clear: improved outcomes, higher productivity and lower attrition. So, the question for federal agencies isn’t why they should focus on employee engagement. It’s how can they achieve and maintain high rates of satisfaction in their workforce?

Agencies need employees who are dedicated to employee engagement initiatives. The Partnership for Public Service’s Engagement Coordinator Collective will empower participants to guide their agencies through a robust engagement planning and initiation process.

Over the course of eight months, engagement coordinators will learn to develop, design, execute and sustain their engagement plans while discussing challenges with other participants. At the conclusion of each session, they will complete several action items that help them identify and pursue the engagement goals needed to improve the employee experience at their agencies.

AUDIENCE AND APPLICATION INFORMATION

One to three employees may participate in this cross-agency cohort of engagement leaders, and they should generally be at the GS-13 level or above. They also should have sufficient authority from their agencies to design and implement engagement initiatives at their organizations. This offering is only available for participants of small agencies or subcomponents.

Employees interested in participating should contact Chris Wingo at CWingo@ourpublicservice.org to determine their eligibility.

The program will consist of five sessions and three half-day midsession forums. At the end of each session, participants will have action items they will need to complete before the collective reconvenes. All sessions are held virtually in 2021 and run from 1:00 – 4:30 p.m. ET.

Session 1: Establishing Priorities
March 23–25
- Analyze your agency’s Best Places to Work in the Federal Government® rankings and what they say about your workforce.
- Determine priority areas and goals you will work to address over the course of the program.
- Discuss strategies for gaining buy-in on your priorities from senior leaders.

Session 2: Designing Solutions
May 4–6
- Use human-centered design to understand the complexities of the employee experience.
- Discover innovative techniques for brainstorming and developing your ideas.

Session 3: Achieving Results
July 7–8
- Identify approaches for gaining the support of impacted stakeholders from across your organization.
- Develop a strategy for evaluating the success of your program.

Session 4: Communicating Your Plan
September 1–2
- Develop strategies for promoting your initiatives to employees.
- Create a marketing plan for your program.

Session 5: Sustaining Your Efforts
November 3–4
- Determine how to maintain long-term culture change in your organization.
- Present your program’s results to agency leadership.
- Reflect on the process and develop next steps for implementation.
