Data Leadership in Public Service

The Data Leadership in Public Service Program is designed to meet the growing need for data- ready leaders of government organizations.

As an experienced public servant, you know how to achieve your department's mission and get things done on behalf of the American public. This course will help you build on what you already do well to become a data-ready leader, making informed decisions, driving actionable insights and fostering a data-driven culture within your agency.

The Data Leadership in Public Service program:

- Provides you with data-strategy tools for leading effectively in government
- Empowers you to make impactful, data-driven decisions
- Offers opportunities for you to develop new relationships with other government leaders who share a passion for making government work better

As a Data Leadership in Public Service participant, you will:

- Learn to lead through data strategy and implementation
- Delve into ethical data considerations
- Build skills to communicate with data practitioners
- Build skills to understand data visualization
- Harness the power of data to drive results

During the program you will engage with experts, fellow participants and case studies. By the end of the program, you will have gained a deeper understanding of the basics of data and data-driven leadership. You will also create an action plan for how to address a work challenge.

PROGRAM SESSIONS

SESSION 1: Data Mindset Foundation

WHO SHOULD APPLY

Leaders of leaders (although we may accept high-performing aspiring leaders of leaders), typically federal GS-12s to GS-15s or senior executives from state and local government. Applicants should have an interest in improving workplace culture, growing professionally, discovering new methods and tools to operate more effectively and efficiently, and meeting fellow trailblazers.

LOCATION

Data Leadership in Public Service is offered virtually via Zoom for Government.

TIME COMMITMENT

The Data Leadership in Public Service program consists of three half-day virtual sessions, from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. EDT. You are expected to prepare for and attend every session and complete any pre-work or readings assigned between sessions. Prior to applying to the program, please review the schedule and confirm your availability for all session dates.
